

BREMONT'S NEW EP120 SPITFIRE WATCH Press Release

Bremont, successfully launched in 2007, offers a range of exceptional quality, highly-developed timepieces designed to exacting specifications with high aesthetic values.

Bremont watches, although made using only fine-quality Swiss components hand-assembled by the best watchmakers working from a dedicated atelier in Biel-Bienne, contain an air of quintessential Britishness, derived from the brands founders, brothers and aviators Nick and Giles English.

Following on from the ALT1 and BC ranges introduced in 2007, and the success of the BC-S1 and the BC-S2 series, is the arrival of the new EP120, named after and inspired by a very special aircraft that first flew in 1942.

The soon to launch limited edition EP120 watch is named after (and contains parts of) a famous 1942 Spitfire Mk V aircraft, which is possibly the most credited WWII fighter in existence and is now based in Duxford in Cambridgeshire. It shot down 6 German aircrafts on one day during 1942 in WWII, and the aircraft has been used in films such as The Battle of Britain, starred as the lead Spitfire in Pearl Harbour and Dark Blue World. Some of EP120's original parts, saved during restoration, are integrated into Bremont's EP120 range in beautiful ways, including the dial and movement.

With a limited number of 120 to be made, each one unique, there is much interest already in the beautifully hand finished time pieces.

The EP120 features a black DLC treated steel and titanium case and COSC certified skeletised movement. It has a modified 13 ¼" BE-53AE Automatic Chronometer with 24 hour UTC function and 30 minute Chrono 'Time of Trip' dial, which is an original Spitfire part.

You may happen to see the new EP120 Spitfire watch on the wrists of its many ambassadors and friends including Charley Boorman, Ewan McGregor, Bear Grylls, Orlando Bloom, Mike Golding and Jake Meyer, just to name few.
